¹⁰⁵ Horatio Gates in January 1776, was adjutant general of the Continental Army with the rank of brigadier general.

¹⁰⁶ The naval guns again opened fire "about four" o'clock on the afternoon of January 21, 1776, and ignited some of the houses near what was known as Town Point Wharf. The provincial troops lost "three fine men killed with cannon shot, and one wounded, who, it is thought, will lose his arm." One sailor and two presumably fugitive blacks of the attacking force were found dead at the site of the skirmishing which took place when Captains Green and Markham arrived. The landing royalists withdrew to their ships (Woodford to Pendleton, January 21, 1776, Convention Papers).

¹⁰⁷ In response to a request from Woodford the Virginia Convention on January 6, 1776, had granted him permission to take a leave of absence to visit his family and tend to personal affairs "for such time as shall be agreed on between Col. Howe and himself" (Proceedings of the Convention, p. 71).

Two of the men were from Buford's Company.

AN express arrived here on Friday, with advice, that on Sunday morning near a hundred of the enemy landed at Norfolk, from the action of war, under a heavy firing of cannon, which continued when the express came away. They had set three houses on fire, but were soon forced to retire; the loss they sustained was then uncertain. Three of our men were killed by cannon shot, two of whom, it is said, belonged to Capt. Buford's company of minute-men.

On Wednesday evening six waggon's arrived here from Philadelphia, loaded with arms and ammunition.

One Wooten, in a canoe from Hampton, a few days ago, was chased by a tender as far as Sewel's Point. The old man fringed his canoe on shore, and ran into the woods, but was pursued by dated Norfolk, January 21, 1776.*

WE have had a party, these ten days, upon Tanner's creek, who yesterday had a brush with a tender's boat attempting to land at Sprowle's plantation;
they beat her off, and killed one man --- 8 o'clock at night. About 4 this afternoon, another heavy cannonading began from the Liverpool and Otter, during which the enemy landed and set fire to some houses that remained unhurt, near to what is called Town Point wharf. I sent strong parties to reinforce our water guards. We had three fine men killed with cannon shot, and one wounded, who, it is thought, will lose his arm. We have found one sailor and two negroes dead, ~~and many more were killed and~~ ~~wounded, that were carried off in their~~ boats. Capts. Green and Markham arrived in the height of the fire."
